The history of weather manipulation 1:20:56

I'm taking a few days off this week so I leave you today with a very interesting film about something that affects us all. The USA allocate 93 million dollars per day to spray the air with a mixture of barium strontium and aluminium. Why you may ask? Do they think the sun is making a mistake in shining? Has Mother Nature suddenly lost control. This exquisitely researched film will certainly get you thinking. I ask you to watch this as it does affect everyone on the planet.
