The lost art of conversation

by Editor | May 28, 2024 | 0 Comments

Anything will grow rusty and fade away without practice and discipline and this applies to conversation with our fellow human beings as well as playing the piano or writing a bike. For some years now I have been...

A busy and showery bank holiday in Bath

by Editor | May 27, 2024 | 0 Comments

One of the best measures of whether the tourist season has begun are for some unknown reason the number of Japanese tourists. We decided to take the bus instead of driving and arrived about 11 am whereupon we swiftly...

Writing a speech for a special occasion

by Editor | May 26, 2024 | 0 Comments

On the occasion of my 80th birthday I have thrown a party and I want to reflect on the last 80 years but also don't want to bore people to death. I will try and give my utterances in postcard size chunks and also...

How not to run a meeting

by Editor | May 24, 2024 | 0 Comments

I signed up for a zoom call with an organization whose name I will not mention here; the idea was to form a spiritual group to discuss aspects of the particular field. This was led by two ladies both of whom had...

Pictorial adventures in London part 4

by Editor | May 18, 2024 | 0 Comments

I came downstairs for breakfast amongst considerable activity. I noticed that there were many young ladies of a slim build and they looked very athletic types. Little did I know that there was going to be a preparation...

Pictorial adventures in London part 3

by Editor | May 17, 2024 | 0 Comments

A free day. I decided to take the bus number one which goes from Hampstead Heath to Canada Water. I have never been there before but I know it has something to do with the docks. I took advantage of my Freedom Pass to...

Pictorial adventures in London part 2

by Editor | May 16, 2024 | 0 Comments

.. At large in North London. I visited Whittington Hospital and saw a rather strange sculpture in the forecourt. Not sure what the plastic domes are about. Is it for people who smoke or is it a residue from the covid...

Pictorial adventures in London part 1

by Editor | May 15, 2024 | 0 Comments

Once more I am drawn to London this time to celebrate someone's birthday, that someone being the oldest friend I have going back to 1966. Once again I went the cheapo way via Megabus from Bristol for the princely sum...

The Hub Cafe and Library in Paulton

by Editor | May 13, 2024 | 0 Comments

Publicly funded facilities can come and go in the blink of an eye and I know here locally in Paulton the cafe was closed for some time. It has now reopened with a caring and proud manager and a young girl who is...

Discrimination vs. Judgement

by Editor | May 12, 2024 | 0 Comments

I'm spending significant amounts of time in the mornings listening to TWR trans world radio which is an evangelical and theological re broadcasting station in the United Kingdom anyway to act as a conduit for the many...
